Quick Grading

Tired of clicking the "Save and show next" button when grading student work? There's an easy way to score and leave feedback for all student submissions on a single page. It's called Quick Grading.

You can turn on this option at the bottom of any assignment grading page to make it available throughout your course. Just check the box and save your preferences:

Rest assured: Even when Quick Grading is turned on, you can still grade assignments the traditional way.

Have a great week!
